

Pest Free Howick

Find out how you can get involved!

Our urban environment is an important habitat for birds, insects and reptiles – they can only thrive if pest numbers are low.

Help bring back biodiversity to your gardens and see the native bird population increase – all from your own backyard!

A number of locals are already actively involved in trapping – however to be even more effective we need approximately every fifth household involved, so we need people like you working together with their neighbours.

If this sounds like you – please contact us below and find out how you can help make Howick Ward free of pest animals and plants.
